"Get in on the good life"

Only in Spooky Connecticut.....

The Winston Wildman: Similar to the Bigfoot legend, but unique to Connecticut is the Winsted Wildman. Seen first in 1895, the wildman caused quite a stir. The creature was spotted various times that year and was described as a terrifying "wild, hairy man of the woods, 6 feet in height" The first sighting spurred many more that year when they suddenly stopped as abruptly as they began. Stopped that is, until about 80 years later when the sightings began again. After scaring multiple people and being described this time as a man-like creature who stood at 8-foot-tall and was covered in hair, the Wildman vanished again into the forest.

Little People Village of Middlebury: Officially roadside attraction and ornamental garden abandoned years ago, the Little People Village is surrounded by rumor and speculation. One legend, according to Enchanted America, says that a man living alone in a stone house in the forest began hearing voices. The "little people" commanded him to build the village and throne (which is supposedly cursed for those who sit on it). The man, eventually driven mad by the voices, killed himself. Weird? Yes. True? Probably not.

Annabelle, the Demonic Doll: This story will sound very familiar for those who have seen The Conjuring. In fact, the Annabelle doll featured in the movie is based on a old, haunted, Raggedy Ann doll stored in an Occult Museum in Monroe, CT, according to Enchanted America.

Given to her by her mother, Annabelle was originally owned by a nursing student and her roommate. The doll allegedly began to move about their apartment on it's own. Left on the couch it would be found in closed bedrooms.

It also began leaving the girls messages, and they found themselves with strange scratches and cuts. They eventually called the Warren's -- renowned paranormal investigators-- who proclaimed the doll was host to a demonic spirit, performed an exorcism and then placed the doll in their museum of haunted objects.

Hannah Cranna's Grave: Slated as "The Wicked Witch of Monroe" after her husband Captain Joseph Covey went out for a walk one day - right off a cliff - Hannah Cranna's story is quite the local legend.

According to the story on Wikipedia, Hannah would scare her neighbors into giving her food, punishing those who refused with bad spells and rewarding her believers with good.

Her most influential incident, however, concerns her prediction of her own death. She reportedly told the locals that she would soon die and wanted her casket carried on foot (as opposed to by wagon) to the cemetery. The pallbearers went against her wishes and used a wagon - to no avail: the casket rolled off the wagon again and again.

Finally the men were forced to carry the casket on foot, and upon their return to the village they learned that Hannah's home had burned down shortly after her body left it.

Now Hannah still haunts the area. According to legend, each year at least one driver swerves off the road to avoid a woman crossing the street and, in doing so, crashes into Hannah's tombstone.

Maybe they should have honored her wishes.

Presidents Page ~ October 2019

The BWRA Annual Meeting was held in September prior to this newsletter submission, therefore the results of this year's outcome for the Board of Directors Officers will be made available in next month's newsletter.

Your current Board of Directors has been very busy this past year. They have put on four major dinners, four bus trips and let's not forget the Maine and Atlantic Canada Cruise. They have also had a potluck with many goodies to be had, a pizza night that was a great success and of course the annual picnic that was attended by 100 people. We were also fortunate enough to be able to purchase an Audio-Visual System with a little help from Jensen's and have three movie nights with free popcorn.

With all that said we are planning another event filled year. We have four or five dinners tentatively planned, we have several movie/concert nights in the works, several bus trips, pizza night and potluck, which we all seem to enjoy.

Watch the upcoming newsletters for more details.

We are also planning a Senior Expo here at Beechwood on November 2nd. We will have many different representatives from different companies/organizations here to aid us in living a better quality of life to help us "Get in on the Good Life". Visiting Nurses will be here to administer flu shots, CapTel to demonstrate the hearing-impaired phone systems, Lions Club will discuss eye care and window wrapping treatments for your windows this winter and many more.

Watch for more information in the newsletter.

We also have many speakers planned to attend our monthly meetings. Following are the guests for the last few months of this year.

October: Richard Taylor and the Ever-Changing Landscape of Connecticut.

November: Becky Goetsch from Running Brook Farms to discuss the uses and benefits of CBD products.

December: New Resident State Trooper Richard Mulhall

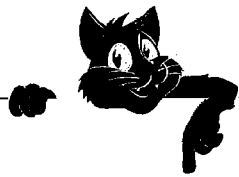

Also remember you need to get your heat tapes inspected to avoid any unfortunate situations with the cold months coming in the near future.

Watch for more information in the newsletter.

And once again we will do a food drive to benefit the "Helping Hands" here in town. It was such a great success last year and we hope our residents will outdo themselves and maybe double the amount of food we gathered last year.

It is always a good feeling to know that we are helping someone in need.

* Update *

Marilynn spoke to the Estuary Council and they will continue to do the trip to Clinton and lunch through the fall. However, participation has dropped off drastically and they have not done it the last two weeks for lack of response. They need at least three (3) people to reserve before he is sending out the bus, he is thinking of going to every other week if things do not pick up.

Bulk waste pick up has been scheduled for the Wednesday after Thanksgiving, which is December 4th.

October Community meeting speaker is Richard Taylor, on the ever changing landscape in Connecticut. Richard L Taylor, Jr., Master Wildlife Conservationist will present Wildlife and Connecticut's Changing Landscape on October 8, 2019 at 7:00 PM. Richard will discuss the history of Connecticut's landscape development from the 1600s to the present and will highlight its impact on our wildlife.

November Community meeting speaker is Becky Goetsch from Running Brook Farm, on CBD Oil and Hemp growing in Killingworth.

Simple Macaroni and Cheese (no need to bake)

A very quick and easy fix to a tasty side-dish.

- 1 (8 ounce) box elbow macaroni ~ 1/4 cup butter ~ 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt ~ ground black pepper to taste ~ 2 cups milk
- 2 cups shredded Cheddar cheese

1. Bring a large pot of lightly salted water to a boil. Cook elbow macaroni in the boiling water, stirring occasionally until cooked through but firm to the bite, 8 minutes, drain.
2. Melt butter in a saucepan over medium heat; stir in flour, salt, and pepper until smooth, about 5 minutes. Slowly pour milk into butter-flour mixture while continuously stirring until mixture is smooth and bubbling, about 5 minutes. Add Cheddar cheese to milk mixture and stir until cheese is melted, 2 to 4 minutes.
3. Fold macaroni into cheese sauce until coated.

A bus full of ugly people had a head on collision with a truck.
When they died, God granted all of them one wish.

The first person said, "I want to be gorgeous." God snapped his fingers and it happened. The second person said the same thing and God did the same thing. This went on and on throughout the group. God noticed the last man in line was laughing hysterically. By the time God got to the last ten people, the last man was still laughing and rolling on the ground. When the man's turn came, God asked for his wish, he laughed and said, "I wish they were all ugly again."

All About Puzzles
puzzles.about.com

Cookies were first made after sugar became available as a baking ingredient about 1400 years ago. They were an enhancement to grain and water based breads made as early as 10,000 years ago. Persian bakers added sugar to bread recipes to create sweet cakes that baked in a clay oven fueled by dry wood fires. Because it was hard to estimate baking temperatures in that kind of oven, small amounts of cake batter, placed inside at intervals, determined the best time to start cooking the full-sized cakes. Eventually, those small "test" cakes became a delicacy in their own right, and today we know them as cookies, the Dutch word for "little cake."
